

BLOOD AND TOMATO SOUP. JOAN PERUCHO'S GHOSTS

SANG I SALSA (DE TOMÀQUET). ELS FANTASMES DE JOAN PERUCHO.

BY JULIÀ GUILLAMON, MORROSKO VILA-SAN-JUAN

In 1960 Joan Perucho published Natural History, a vampire novel set in the Battle of the Ebro. Through fantasy and humour, he exorcised the unhappiness he carried inside. Blood and tomato soup. Joan Perucho's Ghosts, is a reflection around the relationships between history and fantasy, war and horror literature. In the form of a documentary road movie, driving his beloved Renault Dauphine – the first car he had – Perucho crosses a large part of Catalonia: Banyoles and the Darder Museum, La Granadella on the Segre front and Gandesa, scene of the Battle of the Ebro.

DOCUMENTARY
DOCUMENTARY TV
FINISHED

C*

Written by

Julià Guillamon , Morrosko Vila-San-Juan

Cast

Óscar Muñoz

Produced by

Jordi Comellas
Televisió de Catalunya - CCMA
Caixaforum +
La Ballesta

Sales Agent

Contact producer

Genre

Biography

Audience

General Audiences

Running time

55

Original version

Catalan

Format

Dolby Digital
Colour
HD