BY TINA OLIVARES

In a high school, a young student discovers that the strange deaths of her classmates are described in a 16th-century novel, the novel she must read as a class assignment. The novel describes a witch from 500 years ago, who enchanted a maiden at the request of a young nobleman who desired her. The young student realizes that the novel is a foreshadowing. And that its plot is repeating itself, with her as the protagonist of this fateful story, which will end with her own suicide.
